

JOULES

After much deliberation (the dog-lovers in our office are an enthusiastic bunch) we finally decided upon four breeds that would get the Joules Print Team treatment. It wasn't long after the votes were in that our hand-painted prints started to go walkies over everything from plates to doorstops and mugs to tea towels.

The breeds that got the nod were the curious and lively Dachshund (or commonly known as the 'Sausage Dog'), the energetic Dalmatian, the too-cute-for-words French Bull Dog and the much-loved Labrador.

And the items upon which these prints would feature? We went for essentials that any kitchen would love. Plates and mugs make up the crockery collection (that are completely dishwasher and microwave safe might we add) and drinks mats, oven gloves, an apron and tea towels make up the kitchen textile collection.

Joules is the perfect place to sniff out a great gift for any dog lover, no matter whether it's one mug or the whole collection. And whilst you're busy serving up a treat or drying the dishes in style, why not make sure your dog (or any creature great or small) has a place to bed down in comfort with our collection of hardwearing and washable pet beds.

We even managed to catch up with Dave and Donald the Dachshunds and asked them what they thought about their new crockery. To help you out, one woof means yes.

*The new crockery is gorgeous isn't it?
Woof!*

We've gone barking for dogs this season. And if you've got a penchant for a pooch, you're in the right place.
